A LONDON newspaper cetimates that England may object to the pracsertion by the United States of the Monroe doctrine, and hints that John Bull will not allow this government to hold the predominating inment to hold the predominating in-fluence in a Panama ship canal, any cipal of the public debt thereby more than he would permit anybody but John Bull to control the Suez canal. There will hardly be occasion for the United States to do anything and sailors of the war, such informain the premises, as the disposition of the people here as manifested through the people here as manifested through the premises has probable mode it in the press, has probably made it impossible for Mr. Lesseps to go shead with his scheme. The saloon keepers and others proposed to make the enforcement of the law literal and thorough, and while they closed their own establishments, went out and to knotes and names as to other violators of the Poritan Sabbath. Among those who are to be arraigned are some ministers and others who rode to church in hired vehicles.

Difficulties have arisen and always will arise in the way of the execution upon different classes. The restricted class will find sympathy and their demands that all be treated alike will demands that all be treated alike will be complied with. As to the Sanday laws public opinion is the only thing that can make their enforcement successful or possible. A year or two ago the officials of a New Jersey city became highly moral very suddenly on the Sunday question, and denly on the Sunday question, and were rumors. Porter's response to denity on the Sunday question, and were rumors. Porter's response to McCiellan was as follows: old law which demanded the essention on the Sabbath of all but absolutely necessary worldly pursuits of profit or pleasure. Barber shops were closed, livery stables shut up, backs driven off the streets, pleasure gardens foroff the streets, pleasure gardens for-bidden to be opened, and in fact, the only places where the people could go during the twenty-four hours were the churches, and to them they had to churches, and to them they had to walk, or ride in carriages (wheel by the occupants themselves. The city was inhabited chiefly by Germans, who all their lives had been accustomed to enjoyment on Sanday. Beer gardens were their resorts, and when they were barred from these the poor fellows were lost. The bowi they raised against the Sunday law soon fellows were lost. The howi they raised against the Sunday law soon made its enforcement impossible, and at the next election the municipal government was entirely changed. In most of the New England towns and cities there is no trouble in "keeping the Sabbath boly." The Puritan ideas cling to the people, and while on Monday morning they will cheat a blind man on color, on Sunday a whole town would feel scandalized should a barber shave a man on that day. Publicsentiment, then, would sustain the enforcement of an unreasonably rigorous Sanday law. In the west the case is entirely different. Outside the cities and towns of Utah Sanday is the day of all days for those sports and recreations that are combilited in the gast. In most of

WASHINGTON.

Washington, 8. — Horace Davis, to-day, presented a number of California petitions for a repeal of the duty on type, and Page introduced a bill for that purpose. Several dupticate bills are now awaiting action. A lively parliamentary skumish took place in the House to-day, under its new rules, between the protectionists and conservative tariffmembers on the one hand, and the know that the will and wishes of the large majority are in favor of it. Here in Salt Lake there is little trouble in enforcing a comparatively strict Sundsy law. The religious element largely predominates, and frowns threateningly upon Sabbath desceration in the way of balls, theatical performances, liquir drinking, but the law is sought to bear evenly upon all. No unnecessary secular work or play is allowed, and very few complaints are heard.
